The Duplicated Boy is a multisensory, interactive and inclusive educational book destined for visually impaired kids from 8 to 12 years old and sighted infants. The publication was designed to be used as a complementary material in schools and households, encouraging friendship, interpersonal relations, knowledge sharing and the acquisition of new concepts among blind and sighted kids. With a total of 48 pages, 16 poems, Braille printed in transparent resin and ink, and a series of tactile, hearing and olfactory illustrations printed by silkscreen, the book ranges from concrete concepts (tangible and non-tangible) to abstract ones in a multi-sensory journey. It also offers audio narration, enabling illiterate kids to enjoy the experience.
